BELIEVE MAIL PLANE LOST IN OHIO RIVER

Fear Pilot and Passenger, St. Louis Woman Doctor, Die in Crash.

12 MAIL SACKS FOUND

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 21—Parts of an airplane and a dozen air mail sacks, found on the West Virginia bank of the Ohio river this afternoon at Browns Island, five miles north of here, led to the belief that an eastbound T. W. A. mail plane, missing for 10 hours, had crashed into the Ohio river, with its pilot and woman passenger.

An oil tug boat, the Phil James, was ordered to proceed up the river and ascertain if the ship was in the river at the island. The river at that point is 17 to 20 feet deep.

Report Discovery

Ezra Van Dine and Charles Gallagher, who reside on the West Virginia side of a stream, reported they had found part of the landing gear of a plane, a woman's hat, 12 sacks of mail, parts of an aviator's uniform and some watersoaked papers.

The missing plane was last heard of at 2:37 a. m. today when the pilot, Hal George, asked by radio for weather conditions around Pittsburgh. Hiss passenger was Dr. Carol S. Cole of St. Louis, who was enroute to New York.

Pieces of Plane Found

Major John A. Collins, officials of the T. W. A., telephoned Wheeling from Scott's field, north of Wheeling, and reported part of a wing and one wheel of a plane was found at dam No. 10.

It was regarded probable that the plane pilot saw the dam's lights and came down in the belief that it was a landing field.

CORONER RETURNS SHOOTING VERDICT

Finds Bullet Fired by McClung Caused Death of Jenkins.

Raymond McClung, 19, of 770 north Main street, being held under $10,000 bond on a second degree murder charge in connection with the shooting of George Jenkins, 28, early Wednesday night, was charged with the crime by Coroner Dr. Kenneth D. Smith in his verdict following an inquest yesterday.

The verdict read, "I do find that George Jenkins, the deceased, came to his death at 10 p. m. Friday, March 18, 1932, as the result of a gun shot wound received March 16, 1932, at about 7 p. m. at the hands of Raymond McClung.

Dr. Smith said he had examined two witnesses who were present when the gun was fired. Jenkins died at the City hospital at 10 p. m. Friday from acute peritonitis resulting from a punctured intestine received from a bullet said to have been fired by McClung during a drunken quarrel on north Main street early Wednesday night.

McClung will be given a preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin at 3 p. m. Wednesday. Funeral services for Jenkins will be held from the Schaffner-Queen funeral home on east Center street at 2 p. m. Tuesday, conducted by Rev. S. F. Porter of the Emmanuel Baptist church and burial will be made in the Marion cemetery.

Pyorrhea Rival

(Will Rogers Special)

SANTA MONICA, Calif., March 21—Congress with an eye, not on the budget, but on Nov. 4, put a tax as high as 72 per cent on some incomes. That's three-fourths. Congress almost tied pyorrhea, it only gets "four out of five," and Russia only gets half.

'Course a man giving up three million out of four is tough, but on the other hand 90 per cent of our people would be willing to give up 100 per cent of a million if allowed to have one.

The crime of taxation is not in taking it. It's in the way it's spent.

JOB DRIVE PASSES 50,000-HOUR GOAL

Campaign Will Continue Until Thursday; Railroads Offer Cooperation Today.

Marion has passed the 50,000-hour mark in its drive to alleviate unemployment conditions.

Surpassing all expectations of the Marion-at-work civic campaign committee, reports filed this morning in the headquarters at the chamber of commerce showed a total of 50,118 work hours pledged by local residents.

There will be no let up in the campaign to get jobs for the jobless. Plans for the closing days of the drive will be made today at 4 p. m. when the general committee meets in the chamber of commerce offices.

Marion's railroads have joined with residents of the city in the drive. Letters have been received asking how the railroads can be of service to the community. Heads of the drive are planning to ask them to move ahead work planned for late in the summer or next fall so that men may be given jobs almost immediately.

A number of the larger corporations operating here have offered cooperation in employing local men on maintenance work and will discontinue the practice of sending in regular crews organized in other cities. In their place, local labor will be employed.

An opening on a farm for a boy 17 or 18 years old was announced. The offer is for a home more than financial remuneration.

These are only a few of the offers of employment received over the week-end.

The drive will close Thursday.

His back, legs and one arm were scalded.

He leaves his parents and two sisters and a brother, Catherine, Maxine and Lloyd. His father is a native of LaRue and his mother was Florence Tong of Carey before her marriage.

Three aunts and an uncle of the baby live in Marion. They are H. B. Tong of east Washington street, Mrs. Fred Custer of Brenner court and Mrs. Bernard Schlecht of Patterson street, brother and sisters of Mrs. Schotte and Mrs. Fred Needles of Park boulevard, a sister of Mr. Schotte.

Bedtime Tales Too Tame for Chicago Child

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 21—Chicago police settled down last night to hear a little bedtime story from seven-year-old Gertrude Luchsinger, expecting one about a big bear, but what they got left them pop-eyed.

"I was born," she said, "in New York. My mamma's name was Jean, and my daddy was killed in a war in England. Four years ago my mamma gave me to another lady and came to see me once in a while from Philadelphia.

"My second mamma lived in New York. She came to Chicago three weeks ago on a train, but started back three days ago. At the railroad station mamma put me and a little dog and a little baby on the floor and bought the tickets. Then she picked up the baby and the dog and forgot me. Since then I've been shifting for myself. Last night I leaned up against a shack all night."

The wires hummed to New York and Philadelphia, but while they were humming the telephone rang.

"My daughter," said Mrs. Luchsinger, "has been missing since early in the afternoon, ——"

"And," interposed the desk sergeant, "I think she's going to be a great novelist when she grows up."

HOPES FOR TAX BILL REVIVED

Concessions Made to Opposition Likely Pave Way to Agreement.

NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY

Possibility of Enacting Sales Tax Also Seen; May Not Tax Necessities.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 21—By making more concessions to the opposition, the champions of the billion dollar tax bill seemed in a fair way today of getting it across with its sales tax feature included.

Representative LaGuardia, Republican, of New York, a leader of the anti-sales tax forces that have dominated in voting on the bill so far, let it be known that if food, clothing and medicine levies were shunted from the bill he would have no fundamental objection to it. While he spoke only for himself, it was taken in the house to indicate a different sentiment will prevail when the house resumes consideration of the bill tomorrow.

Hears from Mills

The New Yorker made the announcement at a conference with newspapermen after he received a letter from Secretary Mills in which it was stated his substitute program for the revenue bill would fall short by $530,000,000 if the $1,100,000,000 needed to balance the budget in 1933.

The ways and means committee already had decided to exempt additional foods from the 2.25 per cent manufacturers' tax and planned to consider this afternoon proposals to exempt all food, clothing and medicine. Acting Chairman Crisp said striking out such levies would reduce the $595,000,000 yield expected of the sales taxes by $145,000,000 which would have to be made up in other ways.

Ready With Concessions

LaGuardia said he was willing to excise taxes to be levied on automobiles, radios, electric refrigerators and all other things not considered necessities of life.

Crisp conferred with him and Representative Doughton, Democrat of North Carolina, leaders of the opposition forces with a view

Second Man in Kidnaping of Niles Boy Fares Better Than Pal.

OTHER MAN UP FOR LIFE

De Marko Permitted To Plead Guilty to Lesser Kidnaping Offense.

By The Associated Press

WARREN, O., March 21 John De Marko, 30, of Youngstown, the second of two men indicted in connection with the kidnaping of 11 year-old James DeJute, Jr., of Niles, today pleaded guilty to a charge of harboring and concealing a kidnaped person and was sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the state penitentiary.

De Marko also was indicted on a charge of kidnaping with intent to extort, which carries a penalty of life imprisonment, but was permitted by Prosecutor G. H. Birrell to plead to the lesser charge.

Life for Hargraves

Dowell Hargraves, 31, of Youngstown, has been given a life sentence for his part in the abduction of the boy, who was seized near his home March 2 and found three days later in an abandoned gambling house near Youngstown where he was being guarded by Hargraves and De Marko.

Asked by Common Pleas Judge Lynn B. Griffith if he would name "higher ups" still sought in the kidnaping, De Marko said he did not know who they were. He told the court he only went to the place where the boy was found to buy liquor. The De Jute boy identified Hargraves as one of the two men who grabbed him as he was walking to school, but has not identified De Marko.

Plans to Nolle Other Charge

In accepting the plea of the lesser charge, Prosecutor Birrell said that he would nolle the kidnaping with intent to extort indictment provided no further evidence was found against De Marko by next Nov. 1.

REPORT WOMEN DIE IN CHURCH DEFENSE

Shot Down by Soviet Troops, Dispatches from Rumania Say.

By The Associated Press

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 21—Reports reaching here from Rumanian villages on the Ukranian border today said a number of women were shot down by Soviet troops in a "bloody Sunday" riot while defending their churches.

The reports described alleged eye-witness accounts of Soviet church-wrecking activities which were resisted by the village[illegible].

In the Ukranian village of Tasiak, across the river from the Rumanian village of Kitzani, they said, Soviet soldiers attempted to destroy a church and were faced by a crowd of 300 women. The soldiers fired their machine guns and killed and wounded several, the reports said.

Another report from the Rumanian military post at Mihaiviteazu said the Soviet soldiers "could be clearly seen" shooting down 15 peasants, including several women, while the latter were trying to defend the holy cross in the village square at Buturaga, where the soldiers were destroying religious emblems.

There were reports too that several peasants from the Ukranian village of Schiotiaga tried to escape with their families across the Dniester by hiding their wives and children in barrels and driving down along the river banks as though they intended to get water out through holes in the ice.

When the coast was clear they would whip up their horses and race across the ice to the Rumanian shore. One wagon was said to have reached Rumania, but the others were reported to have been intercepted and the occupants shot.

KIDNAP CLUES PROVE FUTILE

No Word Heard Yet from Lindy Jr., Missing Since March 1.

PARENTS HOLD UP WELL

False Leads Continue but No Information of Value Is Reported.

By The Associated Press

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 21—Spring has brought no warmth to the hearts of a stolen baby's parents. There has been no word of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., kidnaped from his crib March 1.

The Lindbergh telephone lines continue to buzz with reports that babies looking like the stolen child have been seen. Mrs. Lindbergh frequently takes the calls, and questions the caller closely.

All such leads have proven false but state police have arranged for a close check on all babies who might possibly include the one being sought.

There has been nothing in several days to indicate that either police or private investigators have found a clue they believe will lead to a solution.

The Lindberghs, friends say, are holding up well under the strain.

Henry (Red) Johnson, questioned at the Lindbergh estate last week, was able to give no information of value, police said. He is being held for violation of the immigration laws.

Two Carrier Pigeon "Clues"

Investigators in the Lindbergh kidnaping were excited for a time today by two notes, supposed to have been found on carrier pigeons. One was quickly revealed to be a hoax and the other could not be verified.

The 10 o'clock bulletin of the New Jersey state police, issued by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, told of the two notes.

The note not accounted for thus far was reported to have been in code and found on a bird beaten down in a storm in Connecticut. The informant of the police said he did not see the note and refused to name a local bootlegger who he said decoded it. He said it read:

"All lines unsafe. Kid in yacht. Making no port. Well-trained care outside United States jurisdiction. Return bird."

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 21—Investigators in the Lindbergh kidnaping sought today to learn the significance of two carrier-pigeon notes.

The two notes, as reported to New Jersey state police, read:

"All lines unsafe. Kid in yacht, making no port. Well-trained care outside United States jurisdiction. Return bird."

And: "Pulled off the job in fine order. Made a clean get-away. No one even suspects me. Will meet you Monday as planned. Will have the dough with me. Yours (signed) Red."

The first note, police said, was reported to have been in code and found on a bird beaten down in a Connecticut storm. The informant, who said he did not see the note, told the police it was decoded by a local bootlegger, whom he refused to name.

ATTACK MADE AFTER WARNING BY GOVERNOR

White Meets Ohio Miners' Officials in Effort To Effect Peace.

ISSUES FIRM STATEMENT

Ready To Establish Martial Law in Southern Ohio Field if Necessary.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 21—At the close of a conference here today with Ohio leaders of the United Mine Workers, Governor George White said the union chiefs had pledged him their cooperation in maintaining order in the Hocking Valley bituminous coal strike field. He added that the attitude of the union chiefs made him feel that he may be able to avoid sending the National guard into the region.

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, O., March 21—Further violence marked the Hocking Valley-Sunday Creek bituminous coal miners' strike today. A crowd of men stoned an automobile carrying Ohio national guard officers to the No. 6 mine near Millfield. The officers escaped injury. The windshield, windows and headlights of the machine were smashed.

The guard officers, sent into the strike region as observers for Adjutant General Frank Henderson, were ordered to Millfield to relieve ten other officers who had been on duty during the night. As the car approached the mine, members of the crowd hurled rocks at it. The officers turned about and drove back to Nelsonville and reported the incident to General Henderson at Columbus and Sheriff Wayne Wingett of Athens county.

The act of violence came on the heels of an ultimatum from Governor George White that he would send the National guard into the field if any additional disorder occurred. Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson termed the stoning "a serious problem" and he intimated that if the guardsmen were ordered in he would use machine gun companies.

Some 1,500 striking miners, many of them armed with rifles and shot guns, milled about the Millfield district during the day. The adjutant general prepared to visit the district late in the day.

White in Conference

Governor White was in conference at Columbus, with Ohio officials of the United Mine Workers of America and it was expected he would enlist their aid in preserving the peace.

The Hocking-Sunday creek miners went on strike as a protest against a wage cut. They demand recognition of the union.

Yesterday a long standing dispute between operators and nearly 7,000 miners in the district flared into violence.

Ohio National guard units were poised for immediate mobilization following Governor White's stern ultimatum for a cessation of "lawlessness" under penalty of martial law.

Trestle Dynamited

A series of minor outbreaks during the past month and a half was climaxed early Sunday by the dynamiting of a railroad spur trestle and the stoning of five mine officials by a group of men reported to number about 150.

The disorders resulted from reports of the reopening today of the No. 4 mine of the Sunday Creek Coal company at Millfield and the Lick Run mine of the Hocking and Athens Coal company.

Operators were requested by Adjutant General Henderson to keep the pits closed temporarily.

Early today more than 1,000 striking miners gathered at Millfield for a mass meeting, but fears of recurrent violence were dispelled for the time being when speakers renewed their appeals against extreme means.

As daybreak approached, the miners still were milling about the village under the eyes of 50 guards and a group of deputy sheriffs of Athens county.

Direct communication with Millfield was impossible because telephone lines had been cut. Reports from Millfield were made to the telephone operator at Chauncey, about three miles south.

Guards reported "everything calm" to their headquarters in Nelsonville at 4 a. m.

"Professional agitators" were blamed by Governor White for the disorders.

U. S. SHIPS TO LEAVE CHINA

Signs of Peace at Shanghai Lead to Order for Withdrawal.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 21—The quieting down of trouble at Shanghai led the navy yesterday to order withdrawal of six destroyers and as many submarines, together with attending service ships.

The destroyers will be brought back to the Pacific coast, and the submarines to Hawaii, executing a plan originated before the Sino-Japanese complication for reducing the Asiatic fleet and placing a number of its ships in reserve commission.

The army transport Chaumont, which has been standing by at Shanghai since early in February, it carried there the Thirty-first infantry from Manila, also has been ordered to resume its interrupted sailing schedule. It is to leave Manila March 30 for San Francisco, but the regiment it took to China will be left behind.

Te flagsip of the Asiatic squadron, the cruiser Houston, with Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor aboard, will remain at Shanghai, together with a considerable number of destroyers and other small craft.

ROSS PROMISES CUT IN STATE EXPENSES

Democratic Candidate Pledges Economy in Talk at Business College.

Pledging himself to lower state expenditures, starting with the salary of the governor, Galen Starr Ross, Columbus lecturer, continued his campaign here Saturday night for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Ross appeared in the Marion Business college auditorium after giving a talk Saturday afternoon at the courthouse. He has appeared in 51 counties since he opened his campaign. He will appear in Bucyrus Tuesday and Wednesday and in Dayton Friday and Saturday.

"The only way that a governor who is really in earnest about slashing the expense of state offices can put himself in a moral position to do it right," Ross said, "is to lead the procession himself with a real slash of the big salary at the top."

"I can live decently as governor on $6,000 a year and there is no reason why the rank and file of state employes should be cut down below a decent living wage and still allow the so-called big shots to hog the big money."

GEORGE ST. HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fire starting from a wooden bracket which had been used as a support for a kitchen chimney did damage estimated at $30 at the home of William Dains on east George street shortly before noon today. The blaze, discovered by members of the family, was put out by firemen from the No. 3 station.

MARION MINISTERS TO TRADE PULPITS

Pastors Plan Series of Holy Week Services in Five Churches.

Each night in holy week, five Marion ministers will exchange pulpits to deliver sermons on a theme in keeping with the day in the Passion of Jesus.

One of the ministers will give a short synopsis of his sermon each day during the week. Rev. W. Martell George of Wesley M. E. church who will preach tonight at the First Church of the Brethren, has prepared the following paragraphs on the subject, "The Courage of Jesus," from Matthew, 21:13, "My house shall be called the house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of thieves:

"As you follow Jesus through His ministry, His passion, and on through the triumph of His work at Easter you will be impressed with the holy courage He manifested. Without this He could not have been the Christ. The stand which Jesus took in these final days in Jerusalem are enough to drive the cowardice out of a soul that has heart enough to admire reality.

"The climax of Jesus' ministry comes as He 'set His face steadfastly toward Jerusalem.' Here in Jerusalem, the city of God, He makes His final stand in the hope that the people would respond. In the temple He finds men substituting greed for God. Every lower of his today. He could have hurled against the organized evil of that day, and this should be a challenge to the heroic in every follower of His today. He could have easily ignored the issue, and said nothing—His timid followers often do that today. This sublime courage is manifest not in His act alone but in the facing of eternal issues, and bearing the testimony of righteousness and true religion.

The five ministers are Rev. Mr. George of Wesley M. E. church, Rev. G. G. Canfield of the First Church of the Brethren, Rev. Paul H. Bourquin of Salem Evangelical church, Rev. James O. Dodd of Central Christian church and Rev. H. H. Maxwell of Grace Evangelical church.

SLEET STORM CAUSES TROLLEY CAR DELAY

Ice on Rails and Wires Holds Up Bucyrus-Marion Service.

Marion's hopes of balmy spring weather were again shattered when a sleet storm last night put a blanket of ice over the ground. Although spring was officially ushered in at 2:54 p. m. yesterday, the thermometer fell last night, hitting a low of 31 degrees. A little cheer may be found in the weather forecast, which promises slowly rising temperature tonight.

Wires heavily covered with ice caused a delay of two hours and 40 minutes in Marion-Bucyrus interurban service this morning. Due in Bucyrus at 7:35 a. m., slow travel caused the interurban to arrive there at 10:10 a. m.

Although telephone wires were likewise covered with ice, no trouble had been reported this morning. Careful driving on the streets, combined with a gradual thaw, prevented any serious automobile accidents here.

The complete U. S. official weather forecast predicted snow or rain in the north portion of Ohio tonight or Tuesday, with a slowly rising temperature tonight.

Yesterday's maximum temperature was 44 degrees. A year ago the high was 57 with a low of 31 degrees.

COURT NEWS

Board Restrained

The county commissioners were permanently restrained from improving Clover avenue by an order issued this morning by Common Pleas Judge George B. Scofield in the suit brought by Harry A. Amann, as a taxpayer.

The suit involved a legal technicality in which the plaintiff charged that the plat of the new addition to Marion had neither been submitted to nor approved by the city planning commission.

Bank List Filed

A list of depositors who will share in the 30 per cent dividend distribution of the Waldo bank has been filed in common pleas court by Charles W. Miller, deputy state bank superintendent.

The list is made up of depositors who have filed claims with Miller, who is directing the liquidation of the bank. The claims filed by Miller total $74,217.72. Approximately $22,265 will be distributed.

Deeds Ordered

Deeds were ordered in common pleas court this morning in three foreclosure actions brought by the Home Building, Savings & Loan Co. The cases involved Alvin R. Courtney and others, Lyman D. Jones and others and Avery M. and Gladys H. Davis.

Answer Filed

County Treasurer Ray G. Smallwood, through Prosecutor R. M. Wilhelm, this morning filed an answer to the injunction suit brought by Edward O. Uncapher.

The suit seeks to prevent the county treasurer from collecting $403.03, the balance remaining on the assessment against the Uncapher property for the improvement of the south Prospect street road.

The plaintiff charged that he was assessed for too much frontage when the street was constructed. A general denial to the charges was made in the answer.

Sues for Divorce

Gertrude M. Blandi filed suit for divorce from Thomas Blandi, charging gross neglect and extreme cruelty. She also asks for the custody of their three minor children.

The plaintiff charges that her husband is now confined to the Columbus workhouse. He was imprisoned, she says, after he came to their home one night in an intoxicated condition and threatened to kill her. She is represented by the law firm of Patton and Wiedemann.

The first spring football training ever held at Mississippi State Teachers college is set for this spring.

Bonds Set at $300 Each When Pleas of Not Guilty Are Entered.

Nick Romeo of 888 Kenton avenue, Joe Romeo, 25, of 1011 west Center street, John Carozza, of 560 Oak street and N. Uliano, 46, of 214 east George street, were being held by the police today under $300 bond each after pleading not guilty to charges of illegal possession of liquor before Municipal Judge W. R. The four were arrested by the police in a series of raids Saturday night. A quantity of beer was found at the Romeo residences, the police said. A loaded .45 calibre revolver was found at the home of Joe Romeo.

Carozza and Uliano were arrested in a raid on a dwelling house at 440 Smith street which the two men, according to the police, had converted into a liquor establishment. The house, the police said, contained no household goods other than tables and chairs. Four gallon of wine, a quantity of beer and two .32 calibre revolvers, one loaded, were found by the police in a search of the place, the police report showed.

PASTORS ADDRESSED BY O.W.U. PROFESSOR

Dr. Laymon Speaks at Meeting of Ministerial Association Here.

"The books of the Bible are like bonnets; they go in and out of style," Dr. Charles M. Laymon, instructor in English Bible at Ohio Wesleyan university said this morning in his address before the Marion County Ministerial association meeting at City library. His subject was "John's Gospel and Religion Today."

Rev. Carl V. Roop of the First United Brethren church, president, presided at a short business session.

Dr. Layman spoke in part, as follows:

"At the present time John's Gospel is coming into its own. In both England and America important works on the Fourth Gospel have been published this year. John is the working-man's special. Its emphasis is on an experience of Jesus that raises the level of everyday life. Those who are interested in a religious experience that will bring beauty and power into their lives, here and now, will linger over its pages.

"It is in its picture of Jesus that the special value of the Fourth Gospel is to be found. He is pointed out as the Christ because of what He does for folks. Jesus is presented under the form of life-giving symbols. He is the 'light of the world,' and the 'bread of life' and the 'water of life.' He is as important to the well-being of one's spiritual life as light, bread and water are necessary for physical health.

"John is the Gospel for Easter. The living Christ speaks through its pages."

The association will meet in two weeks.

White Meets Ohio Miners' Officials in Effort To Effect Peace.

instances of intimidation of working miners and threatened destruction of property, the governor ordered units of the Ohio National guard "to be prepared to move to the district immediately in the event further contempt of the law is shown, or the continuance of acts which threaten the loss of life and property."

Governor Is Emphatic

"This violence, this disgraceful lawlessness can no longer be tolerated," the governor said. "It will be put down by force of arms if necessary and those found guilty will be summarily punished. Laws, rights, and privileges have been dragged in the dust and those responsible must suffer the penalty.

"Those striking have the right to strike and to picket and I shall shall protect them in the exercise of their rights. But they do not have the right to assault or shoot at persons desiring to work, or to destroy property. Those who wish to work and make a living for their families also have the right to do so and I shall afford them the protection which is their due."

The strike in the Hocking Valley fields began Feb. 1. The miners, already dissatisfied because of the refusal of the operators to recognize the United Mine Workers of America, walked out when a uniform wage scale was put into effect.

The scale, declared by miners to represent a 25 per cent wage cut, gives $3 a day to laborers and 35 cents a ton to loaders.

Sunday's disturbance, as reported by National guard observers in the fields, had its origin in the dynamiting of a spur track trestle leading to the No. 6 mine.

Andrew Chute, assistant foreman of the mine, was injured seriously when struck in the back of the head with a stone. The barrage of stones laid down on an automobile carrying four mine officials resulted in slight injuries to the following men:

Enock Blower, mine fire boss; Herbert Porper, guard; Pete McKinley, mine superintendent, and Oral Daugherty, former official of the United Mine Workers and now employed by an operator.

MYSTERY EXPLOSION ROCKS HIGH SCHOOL

Twelve Illinois Students Hurt in Fourth Blast of Puzzling Origin.

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 21—A mysterious explosion and fire which injured 12 persons in the Springfield public high school had been added today to the list of apparently incendiary fires which have cost two lives and $1,000,000 property damage recently in central Illinois towns.

The nature of the first explosion in the high school building last night is unknown but the two blasts which followed in close sucession were believed to have been caused by escaping gas.

Others of the mysterious fires occurred in Lincoln, Ill., where two lives were lost and $500,000 worth of property destroyed, at Bloomington and at Urbana. Police guards were placed on all public buildings at Urbana to prevent further possible property destruction.

DRY LEAGUE HEAD NOT DISCOURAGED

Predicts Wets Will Not Make Appreciable Gains in Congress.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 21—Prediction was made today by F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, that anti-prohibitionists would not make any substantial gains in the next congress.

He made this forecast in a statement summing up an analysis of the recent prohibition roll call in the house, coupling it with a declaration that the league will consider the votes cast in favor of submitting repeal to the people as wet votes. This, he said, even though not all of the 187 representatives who voted that way are anti-prohibitionists.

At the same time, McBride said the analysis showed neither party could afford to place a repeal or modification plank in its national platform.

SEEK TO COLLECT CAMPAIGN NOTES

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 21—The County Trust company, of whose directorate Alfred E. Smith is chairman and John J. Raskob a member, sought in supreme court today to collect on a note signed by Tim J. Mara. The action is for $50,000. It is the second of two suits to recover on notes totalling $255,000 which Raskob indorsed and which were made for the purpose of helping erase the Democratic committee's deficit on the 1928 presidential campaign.

In a similar suit Saturday against Patrick F. Kenny the defense was that the money was actually lent to meet the campaign deficit and that Kenny and the others merely permitted the use of their names, with no thought of being held responsible.

GOVERNMENT CRISIS CONFRONTS BRAZIL

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, March 21—Brazil stood today at the most important political crossroads since the 1930 revolution. A decision was imminent on whether Getulio Vargas, de facto president, or another will restore constitutional government in the western hemisphere's second largest republic.

Rio Grande do Sul, President Arga's native state, has deserted his regime, charging he has delayed unduly the restoration of legal government, following his seizure of power two years ago. Unless the President is successful in placating his southern Brazilian cabinet colleagues at Rio de Janeiro today, his position may easily become hardly tenable.

GANG WRECKS TRAIN IN HOLDUP ATTEMPT

Americans Escape as Mexican Bandits Are Routed by Soldiers.

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, March 21—Eleven Americans had arrived at their destinations in Mexico safe, but late, today after escaping from bandits who wrecked an international passenger train yesterday near Mariscala, Queretaro state.

The firemen and an express messenger were killed, but soldiers, acting as a train escort routed the bandits before they could rob the passengers.

The wreck was caused by a rail which the bandits had loosened and which the train hit at normal speed.

Hardly had the dust settled when the bandits, about 30 in number, closed in. The detachment of soldiers was immediately organized and drove back the attackers, killing one of them.

Ticket Sales Good for Rabbi Tarshish Address

Well-Known Columbus Jewish Leader Will Speak Here March 31 Under Auspices of Legion Post To Aid Baby Milk Fund.

Although no complete report has been received from any of the groups in charge of the sale of tickets, members of the American Legion who are fostering an address by Rabbi Jacob Tarshish of Columbus, as a means of raising money for the milk fund of the Red Cross nutrition committee, were optimistic today over scattered reports of sales.

E. L. Hill, general chairman of the Legion committee in charge of the affair, said reports he had received from several of those selling tickets, indicated an unusually good sale.

The address will be given by Rabbi Tarshish at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. auditorium on the night of March 31. With the exception of a small percentage which will be paid the speaker, the entire receipts will be turned over to the nutrition committee for the purpose of buying milk for sick and undernourished children of the unemployed.

Impressed by statements from physicians and welfare workers that the greatest tragedy that will come out of the depression, unless constant effort is made to prevent it, will be the increase among children of diseases resulting from lack of the proper foods, principally tuberculosis, the American Legion planned the appearance of Rabbi Tarshish as a means of raising money to replenish the rapidly diminishing milk fund.

Unless this fund is maintained, welfare workers say, hundreds of small children and babies in the city are facing a situation nothing short of tragic. With only a few dollars each week to purchase food the problem of hundreds of Marion families is to obtain just as much solid food as it is possible to buy with the limited amount of money. With such a situation, welfare workers say, the purchase of milk is practically out of the question.

With older children and adults while serious, is less so than with the situation, while serious, is less so than with babies and small undernourished or sick children. It is pointed out by welfare workers. Unless money is made available to purchase milk, these children will be compelled to eat foods not adapted to their age or condition. With vitality lowered by such improper food, children become the ready victims of tuberculosis germs, physicians say.

Rabbi Tarshish who has gained nationwide prominence through his Sunday radio talks, will talk on the subject "What Is Wrong With the World."

OPEN WAR ON OHIO "GAS BOOTLEGGERS"

By International News Service

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 31—Headquarters of the newly organized Ohio Petroleum Industry committee which has launched a fight against "gas bootlegging" in the state, have been established here with J. L. Marsh, prominent oil company official, in charge.

The committee has aimed its guns against the gasoline distributors who seek to evade paying the state's 4-cent tax.

A corps of paid sleuths will work under Marsh, ferreting out tax evaders and obtaining evidence with which to prosecute them in the state courts. Local committees to supplement the work of the Youngstown headquarters staff will be formed in all important centers throughout the state, according to Marsh.

WHAT MARVELS human industry, modern agricultural methods and capital could work in this state! That will come in time; not everything can be accomplished in 100 years. First must come the boom and the exploded boom, then the people and the finished product.

Everything in abundance here—fish, game, fruit, vegetables, sunshine—everything that human happiness requires.

When the late W. J. Conners of Buffalo presented to the writer one of his lots fronting on Lake Okeechobee, he said truly:

"You can catch fish from your front yard and shoot wild ducks in the back yard."

A few more years, a great deal more hard work, a few more men like Flagler and Carl Fisher, a little more common sense on the subject of immigration, and this magnificent state will have its twenty million inhabitants, with such wealth and values as the wildest real estate boomers would never have dared suggest.

HOW BEAUTIFUL is happiness with no anxiety about tomorrow! The train stops, and a young colored man roats up in a powerful run-about of uncertain age. The train blocks his way, but has he not a powerful engine? Is he not out to enjoy himself?

Driving at high speed, he cuts across an empty lot with deep holes that bounce him and his delighted companion to the top of the car. To avoid an early model T driven by a white lady, the run-about driver "steps on it" climbs over the railroad tracks, goes down a bank and is off to continue enjoyment of speed and power.

Vincent Astor in his big Chrysler, Albert Lasker in his sixteen-cylinder Cadillac, "Flo" Ziegfeld in his Duesenberg all put together, do not know the automobile joys of that Florida driver in his 1915 somethin'-or-other.

Come to Florida if you can whether rich or not rich. There are accommodations here for all that have enough to support themselves.

You may not be as happy as the man in the old runabout, but you will be glad you came.

REELECTED

FRANK C. RANSDELL

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS REHIRED

Frank C. Ransdell Gets 3-Year Hardin County Contract.

KENTON, March 21—Frank C. Ransdell, superintendent of the Hardin county schools, was re-elected for a three-year term Friday at a meeting of the Hardin county board of education.

His term is to start Aug. 1 marking the close of his first year as superintendent succeeding C. A. Arganbright, who was forced to resign because of ill health.

Mrs. Cleo Sherman, clerk in the office of the superintendent, was renamed for a like period. Her new term will start on September first.

dead carrier pigeon, which was at first believed might have some connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping case, was learned to have been written by several boys as a prank.

The investigators said the boys found the pigeon last Friday, wrote the note on a piece of paper and attached it to the pigeon's leg in a crude manner with string. They said they then placed it in front of a store in the Broadheadsville section, where it was found Saturday morning by LeRoy Bond. Bond and Charles Stein, a deputy sheriff, took the message to authorities at Hopewell, N. J.

On the paper was written: "Pulled off the job in fine order. Made a clean getaway. No one even suspects me. Will meet you Monday as planned. Will have the dough with me. Yours, Red."

Investigators said the boys told their parents of the prank after learning of the excitement it had caused.

GALION—Robert E. Scanlon was removed from his home at 218 south Columbus street to the Good Samaritan hospital Sunday.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy checks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasant results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.—Adv.

HOPES FOR PASSING TAX BILL REVIVED

Concessions Made to Opposition Likely Pave Way to Agreement.

to a formal conference probably tonight in an effort to reach an agreement before the house resumes consideration of the bill tomorrow.

When the bill again is taken up tomorrow, to keep it from being hacked to pieces acting Chairman Crisp of the ways and means committee intends to bring up immediately the sales tax provision. Before the hurried adjournment Saturday, the revolters wrote up to the unsurpassed heights taxes on the biggest incomes and fortunes, pushing them to a point that led Rainey to warn the house was coming perilously close to communism.

The estate tax normally would be reached before the sales tax section, the LaGuardia forces having announced intention of boosting it too, and LaGuardia is planning to offer an amendment to levy a one-quarter of one per cent tax on the sale value of all stock transactions, and another to eliminate consolidated returns by corporations.

Will Need Substitute

Crisp's idea is that if the sales tax is knocked out of the bill it will be up to the house to adopt a substitute means of raising the revenue needed to balance the budget.

More trouble over the revenue bill loomed today as representatives of Atlantic coast states met to plan a fight against the proposed one-cent a gallon tax on petroleum imports.

bedside of her daughter, Mrs. William T. Bingham, who is ill at Newark, N. J.

Because of anxiety over her daughter's condition, Dr. Cole chose to make a flight in the night mail ship rather than wait for a passenger plane leaving here this morning. She was wearing a parachute when she departed.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 21—A mail plane, carrying a pilot and a woman passenger, was reported missing near the Ohio-Pennsylvania border in the Steubenville region today. Officials of the Transcontinental Western Air lines at Port Columbus said the ship was last heard from by radio at 2:37 a. m. The pilot's name is Hal George and his passenger, Dr. Carol Cole, was enroute from St. Louis to New York.

The ship is a Northrup mail and passenger plane, bearing the number "966Y."

Pilot George took his ship out of Port Columbus at 1:17 a. m. At 2:37 he asked by radio for weather conditions at Pittsburgh. Residents of Winton Junction and Mingo Junction, near Steubenville, reported the plane circled those towns and later it was reported George was forced by the thick weather to turn southwest toward Dinsmore, on the Pennsylvania line.

Two planes were sent out from Port Columbus today to search for the missing ship.

Christ in Gethsemane Theme of Lenten Sermon

"Far back in the history of Christendom, as Christ's holy religion was about to be launched, there is a little scene which has such lasting effects upon human souls and which ever since has had an undying appeal to Christian loyalty. It was the scene of Christ's ordeal of torment and mental anguish in the garden of Gethsemane, where, with Peter, James and John He had repaired to begin His passion and death. It was a famous and well-tried spot for the Master, and many were the times, when wearied and tired with a hard day's labor, He had gone to the little grove of olives to commune with His heavenly Father. And so, even now, as He was about to begin the greatest act of heroism and love that the world had ever known, He would go there, too, to visualize the scene of the morrow more vividly, to speak to His Father who was to be placated by this act of love and to teach His apostles and all human kind the lesson of fidelity and loyalty which service for Him always demands."

With these statements Rev. Father Edward H. Summe, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church opened the last of his series of Sunday Lenten sermons last night. The service closed with solemn benediction.

"There is perhaps no scene nor word in religious or profane history which portrays in such a clear and decisive way the duty of fidelity and loyalty which the whole of the Catholic world owes to Christ and His church and there is not one of the three hundred million of Catholics this world over who does not realize it, if he stops to think what consolations and joys this church brings into his life from the moment he enters it until the time when he closes his eyes to things material and opens them in the endless vistas of the eternal.

"Loyalty to Christ and His church, which is ours also, is nothing more than what should be our highest attainment. Christ teaches it and shows it and we are no greater than the Master. We all have a debt, which a lifetime could never fully repay, but for the joy of its fulfillment, our names will be recorded in the courts of heaven, with those who were stumbling blocks in their own day, but who now are held in beatitude for their generosity, fidelity and loyalty to Christ and His church."

Rev. Father Summe's subject was "Catholics and Loyalty."

Daily Proverb—Honor and shame from no condition rise. Act well your part; there all the honor lies.—Pope.

Let's hope that Miss Spring hadn't taken hers off for the trip to us yesterday.

But 3,385 working hours shy, at the close of the fourth day, of the 50,000-hour goal sought in the ten-day job drive. That's moving right along in a splendid effort to a sure victory.

In his new book, just published, David Lloyd George, raps the United States for its attitude regarding war debts. It's amazing how the interests of our European debtors work to nullify their appreciation of the principles of common honesty.

British officials and theatrical people are said to be fearful that not less than 2,000 British actors will be expelled from this country in the event that the Dickstein bill is favorably reported back to the senate. Not the slightest danger of that unless the bill works against those who only think they are actors.

John J. McKeon, another of Mayor Jimmie Walker's friends wanted as a witness before the Hofstadter committee investigating corruption in New York City, it has been announced, has been A. W. O. L. for between four and five months. Somebody must have passed out tips to the absentees to go while the going was good.

If political conditions in Chicago are anyway as near so bad as set out in the request made by a somewhat minor politician of that city to Senator Borah for federal aid, what Chicago should stage is not a world's fair, but a thorough political house-cleaning.

In justification of the big salary paid him as head of the American Cotton Cooperative association, E. F. Creekmore was described to the senate agricultural committee as a sort of a Babe Ruth among the cotton brokers. There's this difference: Babe makes money for his employers, while the heads of the farm board and its subsidiaries burn the public's.

Realism Triumphant.

Japan has done the world a service by recalling it to realism. The dream of a world sweetened eternally by peaceful counsel at Geneva and restrained from brutal aggression by signed documents outlawing brutal aggression was pleasant. Japan has demonstrated, however, that it was a dream—not to be taken too seriously.

Japan's part in the awakening has not been deliberate. This merely happens to be the time for that active nation to take another step in the fulfillment of its manifest destiny. The United States, first to use that convenient excuse for aggression, might easily have filled Japan's place in other circumstances and times.

Deliberately or not, Japan has shown Americans, least realistic of all national groups, that it is unsafe to live in a dream world. The shifting of the balance of national power is inexorable—moved by a power that can not be checked by rules. By seizing Manchuria, by getting control of the Chinese government, Japan does no conscious wrong. Neither did the United States do conscious wrong when it wrested an island empire from weakened Spain.

To stop the continued operation of forces responsible for the existing arrangement of nations, a world-seeking escape from an overdose of reality during the World war has established the League of Nations, subscribed to the Nine-Power treaty and exalted the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war. For ten years it has worked under a delusion of international cooperation. The events of the last year reveal clearly for the first time how extensive the delusion has been.

Japan, the realist, has gained control of Manchuria. China, the dreamer, can not help but feel that it has been betrayed by the League of Nations which it trusted so implicitly.

It has been demonstrated that the Kellogg-Briand pact and the Nine-Power treaty did not fill the conditions requisite for good treaties, because they offered more than they could give.

The League of Nations, denied power at birth, has had no power in the first test of its value as an agency to insure peace. Japan was close enough to reality to understand that there would be no punitive expedition and no boycott against her under League of Nations auspices. The rest of the world, including deluded China, understands that too—now that the Japanese program has been partially carried out. There is no power under the sun strong enough to stop a nation determined to go to war.

The Taxation Climax.

Americans have bled and died defending their principles of taxation. The fervor present in this period before new and stunning attacks are to be made on the public pocketbook by the federal government can be excused. Men are not responsible at such times.

The loudest outcry is from those opposed, for reasons of principle and policy, to the so-called manufacturers' sales tax, which in most cases would operate as a consumers' tax. Originally, it was proposed to raise close to $600,000,000 by means of this taxation device. By the time it has been worked over in congress the amount will be much less, and it may be presumptuous to predict retention of sales taxation in any form.

The reasons for the outcry are not hard to discover. Americans have come to lean heavily on the attractive principle that government should be mainly supported by those best able to pay. In the fiscal year 1929-30, for instance, when income taxes produced sixty per cent. of federal revenue, no one objected; at least, the objections of so small a portion of the total population didn't amount to much. Now, in 1932, it becomes necessary to reach down further—to broaden the basis of taxation—to draw from the bottom as well as the top. The chorus of protest is augmented by the voices of some ninety per cent. of the population.

Load more of the burden on the big fellows, is the cry from below. Few as yet have realized that more has been loaded on the big fellow, to the point where heavier taxation would mean wholesale confiscation. Income tax collections for the first quarter of this year tell the story. In 1929, $601,000,000 came rolling in. This yeyar the treasury will be lucky to get $200,000,000. Like the buffalo, the big fellow is disappearing rapidly, and for much the same reason: he is being killed off.

Even by taking forty per cent. of incomes over $100,000 it would be impossible, in combination with similar heavy increases, to squeeze out half as much from the income tax as flowed out freely in 1929-30. After all, tax legislation is to produce revenue, not to bring about a redistribution of wealth. And it is for the purpose of producing revenue, to come as close to balancing the national budget as possible, that the house ways and means committee, author of the tax legislation now pending in the house, has busied itself. Committee members and their colleagues who believe the bill is fair need ask only one question of the opposition to make all positions clear. It is: What substitute have you to offer?

Whether Americans relish it or not they are to learn the realities of taxation shortly by the apple method, familiar to the schoolroom. They are each going to take an apple, not a theoretical apple or a free apple, but their own apple, and divide it—so much for the city, so much for the county, so much for the state, this piece here for Uncle Sam and the rest for me. They are going to be made to realize, furthermore, that Uncle Sam's share is always the same; the size of the apple doesn't matter. And when it is all over they will know what it costs to run government than they ever suspected before. It wasn't so bad to pay heavy taxes for a great cause during the World war, but it's going to go down hard in 1932, with no war—nothing but an expensive government to fight for and about.

The sale of Japanese goods in China fell off forty-nine per cent. in February. It just naturally isn't horse sense for the Japanese to expect dead Chinese to put in their time investing in Nipponese exports.

The fight being made by officials of the farm board and its subsidiaries to the proposed $15,000 limitation on salaries gives a fairly good line on whether the salary racketeers are working chiefly for the benefit of the farmers or themselves.

The Chicago lawyer, who dropped a nickel into a mint-vending machine found in his client's place of business to demonstrate to the court that it was not a gambling device but merely a merchandise vender, with the result that out rolled a number of mints and eight nickels, needn't expect any sympathy from his profession. He utterly violated legal ethics by failing to make proper preparation for trial.

Great Britain Looks at Us.

Mr. Walter Lippman, who probably understands national attitudes as well as any individual can, says that the British are the only long-established people in the world who actually feel that they can make large plans and carry them out; who are the masters to some degree of their own destiny.

Without meaning to do so and certainly with no intention of admitting that such a comparison can be made properly, the United States has invited the the world to compare it with its direct ancestor, Great Britain. The younger nation always has been headstrong, and proud of it. Great Britain, while keeping up with the times, has been cautious. When hard times came, it was no novelty for the British to tighten their belts and tackle the job waiting to be done. It has not been easy in the United States. National attitudes are intangible, but they have realistic effects.

Great Britain is proud of the way it taxed itself to balance the national budget. It is proud of the fight it is waging to regain its markets. It is proud of its comparative freedom from crime and its cleanliness of politics. By the same token it feels free to criticize the new nation on the other side of the Atlantic for its seeming inability to do equally well. And there seems nothing for the United States to do but smile and determine to do better.

The prosecuting attorney of Trumbull county holds that voters who did not cast a ballot in the November election of 1930 are not legally affiliated with any party and are therefore ineligible to vote in the primaries and, further, that a primary ballot different from the one used in 1931 can not be given to a voter in 1932, party affiliations having been determined for two years by the voter's action in 1930. Whatever the law may be, it should be along the lines as construed by the Trumbull county prosecutor. It would bar a lot of political trickery and corruption.

THE IDES OF MARCH!

Editorial Opinion.

RECOVERY IN EUROPE.

Europe's political problems seem as completely insoluble as ever, but in spite of this a notable trend toward business recovery is evident. It may endure and lead to substantial improvement of industrial conditions in the course of 1932, if no major political obstacles arise to thwart economic progress.

Great Britain is the most fortunate of the nations just now. Inflation of sterling has brought something close to a boom, coming at a time when Japan's competition in textiles has been hit by a boycott. Russia has survived the crisis in transport and finance, and her purchases in Europe continue sufficient in volume to aid many industries. German and French industries are cooperating satisfactorily, and some reduction of tariffs has been achieved by the two nations.

The hopes inspired by the plan for a Danubian economic federation also are contributing to general optimism. Foreign exchange rates have been more satisfactory, especially the recovery of sterling in response to the growth of British exports.

This current optimism, however, is directly dependent on several dubious factors. Germany has rejected Hitlerism for the present. The disarmament conference is making some slight progress. It is assumed that the plans for the Lausanne conference on reparations are going forward, to culminate in June.

Should these trends be blocked for any reason, it will be necessary to revise this prophecy of improvement. In any event, it would not be discreet to expect a profound and lasting betterment of European economy until the basic questions of high tariffs and heavy armaments are faced more frankly than they have been thus far.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

PINCHOT TRUE TO FORM.

We doubt if the American people can read the reply of Gifford Pinchot to the Bingham questionnaire without a feeling of disgust that the governor of Pennsylvania should make such an exhibition. Senator Bingham, opposing the $132,000,000 emergency highway construction bill, had wired all the governors asking if starvation conditions existed in their states, and of forty replies, only that of Governor Pinchot admitted local starvation or tried to play politics with the situation. Said Pinchot: "I regard the refusal of standpat Democrats and Republicans to give relief to suffering people, after giving $2,000,000,000 in a dole to big business, as the most scandalous and indefensible preferring of money to human beings in my experience."

This is nothing but a demagogic attempt to create a subversive prejudice at a dangerous time and to curry favor with the discontented. It is characteristic of the Pinchot method of condemning as morally wrong and indefensible every policy with which he does not agree, however sound in principle, as is that pursued by the administration and congress throughout this delicate period. Governor Pinchot has been the sharpest and most unreasonable critic of administration policies of them all, and has gone cap in hand to the federal government on begging missions which other governors and states have scorned. If conditions are as bad in the rich state of Pennsylvania as Governor Pinchot says they are, does none of the responsibility fall upon his shoulders?—Boston Transcript.

The Word of God.

Faulty Diet and Headaches.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It is believed that more than 4,000,000 persons in the United States, including 1,000,000 children, are sufferers from migraine, or headache. Not all cases are due to failure of elimination, but most of these suffers have been habitually constipated for years.

Intestinal laziness is an evil associated with our modern civilization. The eating of highly-refined foods, lack of roughage in the diet, hasty eating, improper habits and carelessness in personal hygiene are factors fundamental to this disturbance.

In children, constipation is due to faulty training, lack of proper habit-formation and poor diet. Training in regular elimination should begin in infancy.

The diet should contain abundant vegetables and fresh fruits. For older children it is important to insist that ample time be set aside for the toilet. This should be attended to before other duties of the day are begun.

Food should be eaten slowly and carefully. Each morsel of food should be thoroughly chewed before it is swallowed. If the intestines are sluggish, it is best to avoid fried and greasy foods as well as candies, pastries and rich desserts. The child should be encouraged to drink freely of water.

Good habits are just as important for the adult as for the child. Within recent years graham and whole wheat breads have been advised for the relief of chronic constipation. Figs, because of the small seeds they contain and the roughage they supply, are also recommended. Agaragar is useful because it acts as a lubricant.

The diet should contain an abundance of vegetables and fruits, but, although fruits as a rule are beneficial, I would like to remind my readers that strawberries, raspberries and blackberries may be harmful.

There is nothing as stimulating to normal intestinal action as a glass of cold water taken upon arising in the morning. Some prefer hot water, which may be taken to good advantage. You should drink at least six to eight glasses of water every day.

I want to warn you against the use of cathartics. They may bring temporary relief, but will never cure or prevent constipation, while in time these drugs will fail in their action and have no effect whatever.

Good habits, a healthy life, sufficient exercise, fresh air, as well as proper diet and care of the body in general, will often cure constipation of long standing. Remember that there are no drugs that will cure this condition. You must respect your body, your food and manner of living in order to be normal in this respect.

Fire Taken as an Omen.

BY ALICE LANGELIER

Paris, March 21—I.N.S.—The fall of the French cabinet which has upset home as well as foreign politics to some extent, was forseen by a superstitious member of popular Pierre Laval's household.

While the premier and his family were having lunch in their apartments at the foreign ministry only a few days before the fall, fire broke out in the chimney and, although there was little damage done, the fire brigade was called in to put out the blaze while the family moved into the next room to finish their meal.

The superstitious member saw far more than fire in this incident and predicted that the premier would soon suffer material loss.

The following day, Monsieur Laval picked up a great pile of documents from his office desk and something slipped from among them, falling to the floor with a crash of broken glass. It was a large portrait of the premier which had become mixed up with the papers.

"A future mishap, perhaps," said Mr. Laval. "On the contrary, broken glass breaks an evil spell," answered the superstitious member.

A few hours later the cabinet fell.

A large number of the French cabinet ministers and under-secretaries are good drivers and seldom call on the services of chauffeurs who are allotted to them by virtue of their offices.

Monsieur Laval, however, lets his chauffeur drive him when in the city. When he has a few hours of leisure he likes to go for a run in the country and it is generally his daughter, Jose, who then sits at the wheel.

M. Flandin, minister of finance, was an airman during the war and is an expert driver and M. Morinaud, under-secretary of state for physical education, leaves it to an Algerian chauffeur who wears a red fez.

Tardieu never drives.

The minister of labor has been prompted to call special attention to the "below freezing" rules and regulations in force during the recent very cold weather.

There is probably no country in Europe which sees more sidewalk selling and buying than France. Tradesmen were reminded that it is illegal for youths under eighteen to serve outside their shops when the thermometer falls to freezing point. No woman may be employed in the open air, but a great many of the shopkeepers get around this point by throwing wide open their shops, with no doors or windows and no signs of a heating apparatus. No man over eighteen should be kept serving outside an establishment for long periods.

An Accidental Spelling Correction.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

Moses Cleaveland, the founder of the city of Cleveland, Ohio, it is known, spelled his name with an "a" in the first syllable, and it is a familiar story that the city he founded and to which he gave his name, had the spelling of the name changed in 1831 by the proprietor of the Advertiser, newspaper of that place, who found that the title letter he had ordered for the heading of his paper was too large to get twenty of them within the space of the width of the pages of his paper, and he solved the difficulty by eliminating the a in the first syllable as useless anyhow; and that fixed the spelling as we have it now.

But if this is so, the accident seems merely to have corrected an error in the original spelling of the name that had crept in somewhere. Edmund Janes and Horace Gillette, of Cleveland, have worked out the genealogy of the Cleveland family in America and traced it as far back as Thornkill de Cleveland, who was a Saxon landowner in the north riding of Yorkshire in days of William the Conqueror. Cleveland, or some say "Cliveland," was the name of the place of his estate, and so he took for his name the descriptive form Thornkill, of Cleveland, to designate himself. Anyway the letter "had no place in the first syllable, and when the Cleveland, Ohio, editor in the early days thus accidentally shortened it, he was really making a proper correction.

Grover Cleveland no doubt fell somewhere in the line of descent from the middle-age Saxon newcomer in England, though he was content to let the genealogists work that matter out. As for himself he left these two familiar lines indicative of his lack of knowledge of his forebears:

"My father's father well I know,
But I no further back can go."

If he ever wrote any other verse it has been lost.

"No doubt you statesmen often require a hand of iron in a velvet glove," said the lady with a notebook.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Two Kittys.

David shook his head. He did not look at her.

"Gar!—why doesn't he send word? I—I can't bear it!"

"I know you can, Kitty." He spoke stiffly.

He had said that before, to David. David had answered her like that. Probably she'd stiffened herself against her unbearable heartache and smiled now with a quick lift of her head which David saw.

"Keep waiting with you girls to-[illegible] oysters—" he indicated a package he was carrying carefully. "Maybe Max will drop in and give us some music."

And just as David wanted her to Kitty thought of Max and his music. The fun of sitting around the old table,, in what Dorcas called her "night-club," eating the oysters.

Dorcas was there before them, a big gingham apron tied around her. The lamps were lit, a little fire kindled on the hearth. Coffee was boiling.

Dorcas usually enlivened such times with a vivid recounting of her day. Her assignments ranged from accused criminals to socialities.

Today she had had a particularly delightful experience. The Times through its publicity had been uncovering rare old editions for a local bookstore. A letter had come to Dorcas' attention, written in a fine script. Reading it, seeing the delicate pointed handwriting, she had sensed a story and followed it up.

"I wish you could have seen him, David—you'd use him for a character. He had a shawl around him, actually. White hair, like a fine little mist around his head and pink cheeks. And blue eyes like a child's. And so polite — I must have the only comfortable chair in the room and he must stand bowing until I sat down. And David, what do you think he owns? A first edition of the Old Curiosity Shop—You should have seen how he caressed it. It had been given to his father by Dickens himself. Will he sell it? Thank God, no."

But Dorcas' enthusiasm was for the little old man rather than for the rare old book. He didn't know any one in Winton; he lived here because his grandson had put him here in the back room of a boarding house. Dorcas had touched on a hunger that had not been satisfied. "He's an exile."

A mischievous look had leaped to her eyes. "I'm going to take him with me to Aunt Lydia's, Sunday. She says there aren't any real gentlemen left in the world. I'm going to show her she's wrong. Won't they look sweet talking together?"

Frequently Dorcas spoke, with affectionate amusement, of her Aunt Lydia, who was, she had explained to Kitty, her one root. Kitty had gathered that to a certain age this relative had directed Dorcas' life. She is was who had sent Dorcas to the girls' school near Poughkeepsie, of which Dorcas spoken often, scornfully. Dorcas had left it to "go on her own." But her precious independence hadn't quite barred Aunt Lydia. Every Sunday she dressed with great care and to a degree of elegance in marked contrast to the carelessness of her appearance during the week and went to her aunt's for dinner. But Aunt Lydia, as far as Kitty know, never came to Ketchum street.

Max Adler appeared with his violin before they had cleared the meal away. And after him Mark Quinn, bursting in noisily. He'd been promoted at the garage. Now he could afford an extra evening with the life class. He sat on David's cushion before the fire staring into it, dreaming, until David ordered him off. Emil Schelling ran up smiling, expansive with the good fortune of a new pupil.

Max played for them, one thing after another, walking up and down the length of the room while he played. Kitty, relaxed in the deep chair that was always hers, closed her eyes and her brain to everything but the thin, sweet, lifting tones. On his cushion David dropped his cheek against his hands, where they clasped his knees, and watched Kitty. Mark Quinn, his back to the others, stared into the little fire. Emil Schelling beat his fingers noiselessly against the arm of his chair, his face illumined by some inner ecstasy. A great contentment hung over them; time stood still—yesterday and the day to come were nothing.

The evening was like other evenings. After the music they argued, David with young Mark, heatedly, Dorcas with both of them. Emil Schelling grumbled and grunted and Max Alder denounced all their ideas.

Kitty let their voices tide over and around her, while her thoughts went off on a much-traveled course of their own. Another day without Gar! That it had come and gone and that she had lived through it gave her a dull amazement, as if she saw before her a girl who was neither Kitty Brandon, for whom life had been so joyously simple, nor Kitty Frew, a girl who could go on eating, sleeping, talking, laughing, taking down tweed ensembles and hanging them back again, unfolding and folding sweaters and blouses, saying briskly over and over: "Can I help you, Madam?" and come back here to count what she had gained in self-respect! Tonight she shrank from that other girl who could so go on; all that was tired and disheartened and lonely in her cried out against that self-respect, she didn't want it! She wanted Gar, Gar! The sudden unbearable longing for him brought hot pricking tears to her eyes so that she had to shut them tight and hold them so.

But after a little she opened them to meet David's kind, concerned glance. He gave her a quick smile and she felt steadied, as if a hand had been put on her.

When they were all gone, when Dorcas had put out the lamps and spread the fire and said goodnight, Kitty went on to the little room that was hers. It was not much of a room for it was bare and furnished only with a pine bureau and small iron bed and a table and a chair and its wallpaper was faded and a little dingy but it was hers, for the total of $3 a week.

Before she undressed she sat down at the table and entered the day's expense in a small memorandum book. Breakfast, 25 cents, lunch, 30 cents, stockings $1.25. She contemplated the figures she entered. Unless some unexpected expense came up she could save $8 this week. She'd saved $10 the week before. When the amount reached $50 she would put it in the bank.

She put the book in her bureau drawer. She laid out a fresh blouse for the next morning, hung away her suit. Undressed, she wound her alarm clock, switched off her light and opened her window wide to the cool darkness of the night.

She turned her back on the darkness as it filled her room. She closed her eyes resolutely. Sleep she must have for the strain of the next day. She picked a safe thread of thought and followed it. Those tweed things simply must be sold —another week or so and no one would want them!

Mrs. Frew's day began early with a prescribed system of exercises. After this she ate her breakfast which Cora brought to her room. She ate leisurely, heartily. When Cora carried her tray away she lay on her chaise- lounge and read for an hour, the morning paper, a magazine, perhaps a book of new fiction. After that, for another hour, she submitted herself to Cora's clever fingers and Cora's cleverly directed flattery, finding both stimulating. At 11 o'clock she received Pound to go over with him the orders for the day.

But on the morning following Kitty's flight from the house, Pound came to her door a full half-hour before she expected to see him. Pound was so obviously disturbed that Mrs. Frew dismissed Cora at once.

"Well, Pound?"

"It's Mrs. Gar, madam. She's gone—"

Mrs. Frew's expression did not alter though Pound, if he had not been so completely held in his distress might have heard a quick indrawing of her breath.

"What do you mean, Pound?"

"She went last night. She went alone. Mr. Garfield had gone out—I think he went out to dinner, likely. And she went out just after him. She took her bag, madam. I called a taxi for her. She seemed—well, she seemed upset, madam. If I may be so bold, I'd say Mrs. Gar hasn't been happy all the time. She acted like she had something on her mind. I worried about it being like that. I thought I ought to tell some Gar isn't in his [illegible]

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Reveals Some of the Methods by Which She Has Helped Mary in the Plot To Disillusion Marion.

LILLIAN waited for several seconds before she answered my query concerning the success of Mary's scheme, and the cure of Marion's infatuation for Charles Owen.

"I'm practically sure of it," she said. "Mary and Ronald have been giving the prettiest little exhibition of a lad falling in love with a siren that ever was staged. Marion is thoroughly convinced of the authenticity of the drama. I'm sure, and she's so furious with Mary—inside—that she could boil her in oil.

"Outwardly, of course, she's especially sweet to Mary, in the time-honored fashion of well-bred girls, the world over. She has been so astonished at Ronald's defection, so busy trying to cover her chagrin, that I don't believe she has had time to think of that old buzzard, Owen.

"Ronald certainly has the makings of an actor, unless—I'm afraid, sometimes—well, I've been wondering if he wasn't fed up with her preference of Owen to himself, and wasn't really acting, in his demeanor of perfectly charming but indifferent courtesy to Marion.

Madge Offers the Test

"Of course, he's miming as far as Mary is concerned, but—do you suppose he's being cured of an infatuation also?"

There was such worry in her tone that I caught back the humorous reminder of her former objections to Ronald that had risen to my lips.

"I'm sure Ronald is just as much in love with Marion as ever," I said, "if such adolescent affection can be called love. His pride may be so hurt that she will have to use some extra wiles to get him back, but he's still hers. I'm sure of that."

"I'm glad to hear you say that," Lillian said, "but there's one question left in my mind. Just at present I think Marion has no time to think of Charles Owen, and I'm staking a hundred to one that she's cured. But it's that one chance that's worrying me, and there's only one sure proof—so that we'll know, absolutely."

She paused and, after a silent second, I asked quietly: "And that is—what? Can I help?"

"Yes." Her reply was abrupt. "There's only one way of knowing whether she still prefers that old reptile to Ronald, and that is to see the two together in some place where both have an equal chance to make a good appearance; where, in fact, Owen would have the advantage, if any."

"I agree with you," I said, "and it's easy to see what you want of me. You want me to invite Mr. Owen down to the dinner dance. All right, I'll do it: also the Brixtons."

"You lamb!" she exclaimed. "I knew I could count on you. But you'll have to hire a hotel. You're counting on Ronald's bringing down some more Yale boys, aren't you?"

"Also Harry's cadets. But I have it all thought out. I can put cots in the bungalow for all the boys, and the girls can have extra cots in their rooms. I'll give the Brixtons the boys' room, and treat Mr. Owen as a boy, too, and make him camp in the bungalow with the collegians."

"It'll be tough on the boys," Lillian commented dryly, "but they probably can stand it for one weekend. And I do want Marion to see Owen again, against the background of all these youngsters of her own age. I'm banking on her cure. Oh, Madge, wouldn't it be awful if she should still be attracted by him?"

She slumped in her seat, almost against me; then, patently recollecting the danger of disturbing a driver, straightened herself again.

Using Psychology

"Don't think of that possibility," I said sharply. "Fate couldn't be so cruel. How about the psychology treatment? Have you been administering any of that to Marion?"

"Have I?" Lillian chuckled reminiscently. "You know, I've never been very enthusiastic about Ronald. God forgive me! I'd almost be willing to let him marry her tomorrow, now that I've had this fright about that old hyena."

"You'll exhaust the birds and the beasts if you call him many more names," I admonished her. "Stop worrying about him, and tell me what you've been saying to Marion."

"Mostly 'I told you so,'" Marion's mother replied, with another chuckle. "I rather gave the general impression that fickleness was only what was to be expected of him. I also delicately intimated to Marion that so young and inexperienced a girl ought to realize that she could not compete with a girl who has Mary's beauty, her stage training and her ability to dance so divinely.

The Test to Come

"I also made some philosophical reflections upon Ronald's youth, and said that older men were more attracted by ingenuous youth. I tried to get across the fact, without mentioning Owen's name, that he would be attracted by any young and pretty girl, provided she were as young as Marion, but that Ronald was more critical.

"I think she swallowed the poison and that it's been working, but I won't be sure until I see her talking to Owen."

Pennant Bug Buzzes in Heads of Washington Senators

RESERVE STRENGTH LACKING, BUT CLUB HOPES TO COP FLAG

Johnson Sees Injuries as Only Bugaboo in Coming Campaign.

By The Associated Press

BILOXI, Miss., March 21—Between practice the Washington Senators lounge on the hotel green, listen to the gulf waters smack against the seawall and dream of the American League pennant flying over their ball park next October.

They firmly believe they will cop the flag. They believe they can lick any team in the league. But old man accident stands in the background like an ogre.

For this team does not have strong reserve strength and their manager, Walter Johnson, has impressed upon them the old baseball theory that "a ball team is only as strong as its utility supply."

"Bluege, Cronin, Kuhel, beat that for an infield," challenges Johnson.

"But outside of Joe Judge, we have no utility infield."

"We are all right in the outfield with Manush, Reynolds and West as regulars with Harris and Rice to back them up

"Our catching staff is satisfactory as we have Bolton and Berg to support Spencer. There is Gharrity in a pinch."

Then Johnson moves to the pitching box and there he pines for one more seasoned pitcher.

The list shows two crack pitchers, Marberry and Crowder, and three fair ones, Brown, Fisher and Weaver, but five pitchers are not enough.

Even at that Johnson believes his team will finish on top, barring injury.

The "big train" is centering his attention to his young pitchers and in camp he goes to the box and tries to show them how he became the great Walter Johnson of the mound.

PHAR LAP VICTOR IN AGUA CALIENTE RACE

Australian Flash Romps Home to Easy Win in $50,000 Handicap.

By The Associated Press

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., March 21—Phar Lap, just another piece of horseflesh which sold for $800 four years ago, shoved into second place among the world's leading money winners today through victory in Agua Caliente handicap.

In one great stride yesterday the red ranger from Australia moved in past Gallant Fox to bring his total earnings in this quartet of years to $332,750.

Like the flash of lightning his name implies, the giant gelding thundered down the stretch to win the handicap, with its $50,050 first place money, by two lengths in the track record time of 2 minutes 2 4-5 seconds.

Phar Lap had no equal on the track. The ease with which he left the other 10 starters set the 15,000 persons who jammed this Baja California track to wondering just how long it might be before he surpassed Sun Beau's $376,744.

Two lengths behind finished Reveille Boy, after coming up strong off the last turn to challenge Phar Lap for an instant.

Phar Lap showed none of the effects of his 10,000 mile ocean trip from Australia, slightly more than two months ago.

DEFEATS DAYTON IN CHAMPIONSHIP GAME OF TOLEDO TOURNEY

Jack Ling Is Offensive Star, Scoring 38 Points in Three Starts.

Battling its way through the state tournament at Toledo Saturday with three straight victories, the Marion chapter of DeMolay won the right to claim the Ohio DeMolay basketball championship for 1932 Marion turned in three victories in three starts, defeating Dayton in the championship game by the overwhelming score of 50-27. Nine teams from Cleveland, Painesville, Dayton, Toledo, Bowling Green and Lima took part in the tournament

Marion's first victory in the tourney came at the expense of Denbrook of Cleveland, the upstaters falling before the superior attack of the Marion five, 36-26. Jack Ling, towering pivot man and Russ Harrold, forward, led the Marion attack in this game. Ling rang up a total of 13 points while Harrold hit the net for 10.

Moving into the second round of competition, Marion collided with Painesville and this time recorded a 29-22 victory with Bill Roush, Starling Somerlot and Ling doing the major share of the scoring. Roush scored eight, Ling seven and Somerlot six in this fray. Marion led the Painesville team all of the way.

Marion met one of the classiest teams in the tournament in the final game. Only the fact that Dayton had played two other games immediately before meeting Marion kept them from putting up a good battle against the locals.

Jack Ling and Starling Somerlot were the big guns of the Marion attack in the final game. Ling racked up a total of 18 points while Somerlot was accounting for 13, the two of them scoring more than the combined total of all the Dayton players. Marion took the lead in this game in the first period and was never hard pressed at any time Dayton outscored the locals in the final period by two points but never came close to upsetting the local quintet.

The members of the Marion championship squad were awarded individual miniature basketballs and the team was given a silver trophy.

Training Camp Highlights

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Beryl Richmond, left handed ace of the Baltimore Orioles, indirectly is responsible for uncovering a new batting punch in the Cleveland lineup.

Richmond stopped the free-hitting Averill and Porter but failed to hold Bill Kamm, Eddie Morgan, Luke Sewell and Eddie Montague, who displayed some unexpected prowess at the plate yesterday and gave the Indians an 8 to 3 viceory.

TAMPA—Squeezed out by a score of 6 to 5 in a thirteen inning tussle yesterday the Cincinnati Reds went to Fort Myers today, to try to remedy matters on the Philadelphia Athletics "home" grounds.

• • •

BILOXI—Back in camp with the first defeat of the training season hanging about their necks the Washington Senators polished up today for a resumption of exhibition games the middle of the week

The Washingtonians chalked down to experience the licking given them at Mobile yesterday by the Louisville Colonels, 7 to 6.

SAN ANTONIO—A hurler wearing Chicago regimentals for the first year may draw the assignment of pitching the opening game of the 1932 season for the Chicago White Sox.

With Ted Lyons and Vic Frasier behind the rest of the hurling corps in condition, Irving (Bump) Hadley and Sad Sam Jones, obtained from the Washington Senators during the winter, appear to be the outstanding choices.

CLEARWATER—It isn't often that Dazzy Vance has to give up any pitching honors to the other Brooklyn moundsmen but he had to do it yesterday.

The dazzler pitched two home run balls in the third inning yesterday and finally got the Cards out after six runs had crossed the plate. In the next frame Babe Phelps stepped up and retired the world's champions on three pitched balls.

• • •

LOS ANGELES — A new rookie pitcher, 18-year-old Johnny Solverson, is trying to land a berth with the New York Giants. He was brought to camp by his uncle, also named Johnny Solverson, who used to pitch for Portland of the Pacific coast league.

CALEDONIA DEFEATS GREEN CAMP FIVE Y CAGE TOURNAMENT

Christians Trounce Markert & Lewis; Clash Tuesday for Championship.

Central Christian Sunday school of Marion and Caledonia M E church of Caledonia won the right to battle it out for the championship of the Y county cage tournament Saturday night by turning in victories over Markert & Lewis Haberdashers and Green Camp Baptists. The Christians had little difficulty in trouncing the Haberdashers 33-19 and Caledonia clicked through with a big last period rally to sink the Baptist 16-12 The championship game will be played on Tuesday night at the Y

Caledonia and Green Camp opened in the first game and the fans saw some weird basketball. Neither team was able to hit the net with any consistency and the passwork of both combinations was awful off form. Green Camp took an early lead and clung to a slight margain all through the first three periods of play.

Caledonia finally got its scoring guns located on the net in the final period and dumped in 11 points to pass the Green Camp five and chalk up the four point victory. Caledonia succeeded in holding the vaunted Merton Porter, Baptist Green Camp forward, to a single basket and one free throw for a total of three points.

Central Christians had pretty much of a frolic at the expense of the Markert & Lewis quint The city church champions stepped right out in the first period and took a commanding lead and were never pushed at any point of the game. The losers outscored the Christians in the last period of the game but the rally was far short of turning the game into anything like a close contest.

Ben Gilmore of the losers was high scorer with eight tallies, trailed by John Gillis of the Christians with six markers.

STAND BACK!
LEAVE THESE TWO ALONE —
MILLIE AND MAMA —
SUCH A SIGHT — AFTER LISTENING TO THEIR TALE — THERE WASN'T A DRY EYE IN THE HOSPITAL —

TILLIE THE TOILER — BY RUSS WESTOVER

HERE'S SOME MAIL FOR YOU THAT ACCUMULATED WHILE YOU WERE AWAY REX
OH, THANK YOU, TILLIE
I PUT THAT LETTER ON TOP BECAUSE I THOUGHT IT WAS MOST IMPORTANT
IT'S PERFUMED
SO I NOTICED
I WONDER WHO IT'S FROM?
YOU MIGHT OPEN IT AND FIND OUT

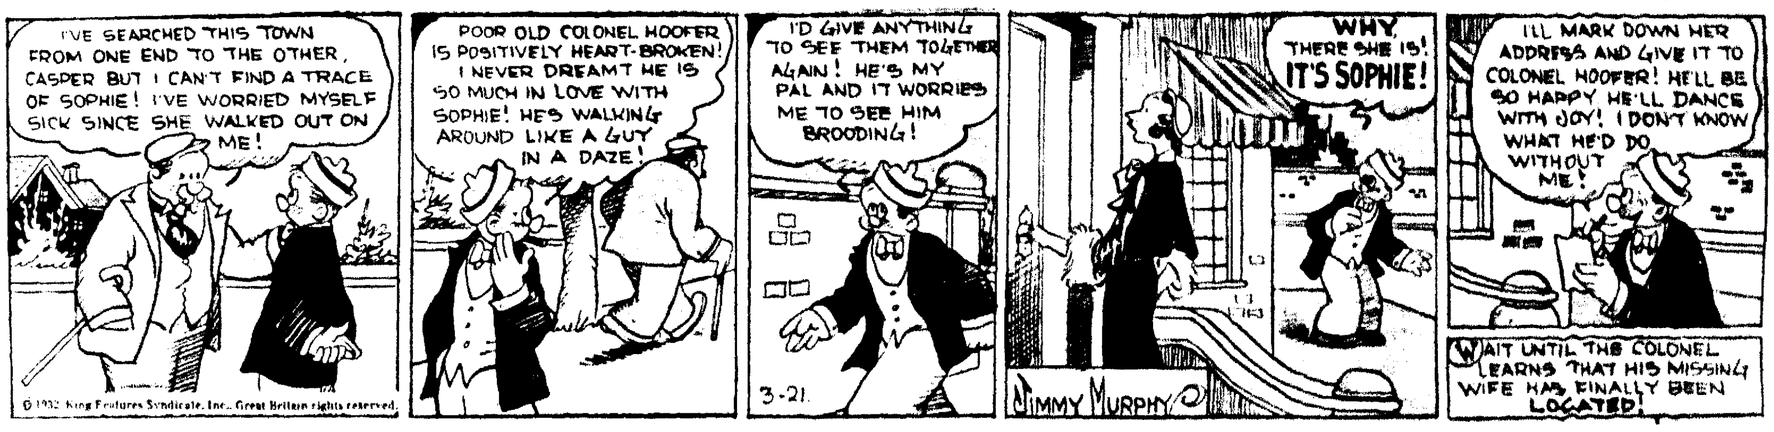
TOOTS AND CASPER — BY JIMMY MURPHY



I'VE SEARCHED THIS TOWN FROM ONE END TO THE OTHER, CASPER BUT I CAN'T FIND A TRACE OF SOPHIE! I'VE WORRIED MYSELF SICK SINCE SHE WALKED OUT ON ME!
© 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.
POOR OLD COLONEL HOOFER IS POSITIVELY HEART-BROKEN! I NEVER DREAMT HE IS SO MUCH IN LOVE WITH SOPHIE! HE'S WALKING AROUND LIKE A GUY IN A DAZE!
I'D GIVE ANYTHING TO SEE THEM TOGETHER AGAIN! HE'S MY PAL AND IT WORRIES ME TO SEE HIM BROODING!
3-21
WHY, THERE SHE IS! IT'S SOPHIE!
JIMMY MURPHY
I'LL MARK DOWN HER ADDRESS AND GIVE IT TO COLONEL HOOFER! HE'LL BE SO HAPPY HE'LL DANCE WITH JOY! I DON'T KNOW WHAT HE'D DO WITHOUT ME!
WAIT UNTIL THE COLONEL LEARNS THAT HIS MISSING WIFE HAS FINALLY BEEN LOCATED!

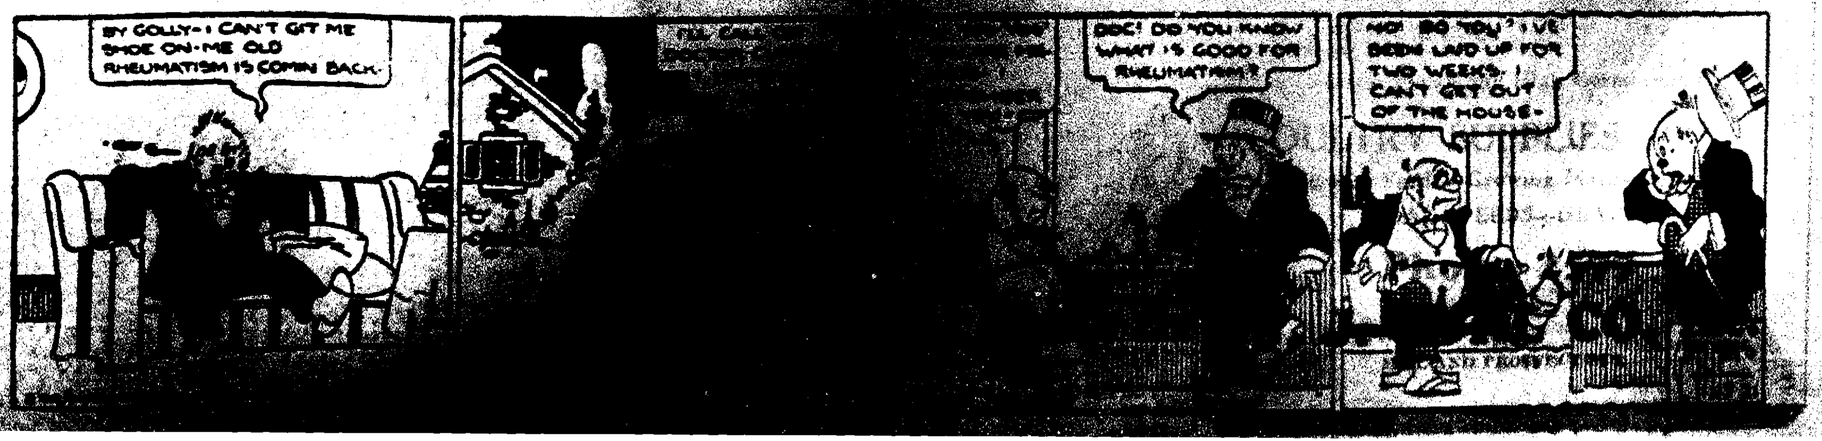
POLLY AND HER PALS — BY CLIFF STERRETT

IT'S EASY TO SAY THAT WE SHOULD BRING ELM AN' CARRIE TOGETHER AGAIN, BUT HOW HANG IT?
WE'LL HAFTA TELL A FEW WHITE LIES, THAT'S HOW!
I'LL FEED CARRIE WITH A LOTTA SWEET FIBS ABOUT HOW ELMER IS PININ' AWAY FOR HER!
GREAT! AN' I'LL MISQUOTE CARRIE ALONG THE SAME LINES TO ELMER!
LISTEN, ELMER, POOR CARRIE MISSED YOU, YISTERDAY!
TH' HECK SHE DID!
CLIFF STERRETT 3-21

ANNIE ROONEY — BY DARREL McCLURE

HONEST, JOAN — THE DOLL BUSINESS ISN'T THE CINCH I THOUGHT IT WAS GONNA BE!
WHY, ANNIE — WHAT'S WRONG? WE HAVE MORE ORDERS FOR JOLLY JOAN DOLLS THAN WE CAN FILL!
© 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.
THAT'S WHAT I'M WORRIED 'BOUT — HERE'S AN ORDER FOR A GROSS OF JOLLY JOANS FROM A NEW STORE.
A GROSS??
YEAH — A GROSS — AN' I FOUND OUT THAT A GROSS MEANS TWELVE DOZEN — AN' TWELVE DOZEN IS 144 DOLLS — AN' WE CAN'T MAKE DOLLS FAST ENOUGH TO SUPPLY ONE STORE —
BESIDES, I THINK WE OUGHT TO SELL OUR DOLLS TO THE STORE THAT GAVE US OUR FIRST CHANCE — YOU KNOW, WHEN ANYONE GIVES ME A BREAK — I LIKE TO GIVE THEM A BREAK!
3-21

BRINGING UP FATHER — BY GEORGE McMANUS



BY GOLLY — I CAN'T GIT ME SHOE ON — ME OLD RHEUMATISM IS COMIN BACK.
DOC! DID YOU KNOW WHAT'S GOOD FOR RHEUMATISM?
HEY DOC, YOU! I'VE BEEN LAID UP FOR TWO WEEKS. I CAN'T GET OUT OF THE HOUSE.

STOCKS REGAIN FIRMER TONE

Develops Strength Early Morning Price Drop.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 21—While fear over taxation legislation in Congress tended to keep speculative activity in check today, the market developed a distinctly firmer tone after a little sag in the early trade.

The early sag was almost completely erased, and by early afternoon advances of 1 to 2 points appeared in such issues as Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Chesapeake & Ohio, New York Central, Pennsylvania, New Haven, Southern Pacific and Missouri Pacific preferred. Other issues up a point or so included Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, Corn Products, Case and Woolworth. Fractional gains appeared in U. S. Steel, American Telephone, and American Can. Selling in the Kreuger issues shifted to International Match preferred which dropped more than 2 points, going below 7. General Motors was under some pressure, sagging fractionally to a new low under 1e.

Brokerage quarters were rather gloomy over the continued low level of business activity and corporate earnings. Some, however, expressed the view that it was too much to hope that the successful stabilization of the banking structure should result in an immediate impetus to business. Wall street is now pinning its hopes to intensive automobile sales campaigns planned for early April. Should these campaigns arouse an encouraging response, it is hoped that the quarterly earnings statement, due toward the close of the month, may be overlooked. It is recognized that the first quarter earnings have been approximately nil for many leading corporations.

WHEAT SHOWS EARLY GAINS

Raise in French Import Quota Adds Strength to Market.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 21—Announcement that France had raised its wheat import quota five per cent helped give an early upward trend to grain values today. Statements credited to Chairman Stone of the federal farm board that proposals to finance United States wheat sales abroad implied no suggestion of dumping in Europe or elsewhere acted also as a strengthening factor. Opening unchanged to ½ higher, wheat afterward advanced all around. Corn started unchanged to ¾ up and subsequently showed a general rise.

New enlargement today of the quantity of foreign wheat allowed to be mixed with native wheat in France, lifted the total to 35 per cent, making the amount now permitted more than was the case last year. Bulls put stress also on 1,632,000 bushels decrease of the aggregate of wheat afloat for importing countries as compared with a week ago. Absence of any material selling pressure here or at Liverpool, was also construed as bullish.

Bears continued, however, that price advances were likely to be limited until the farm board's selling policy was further clarified. It was asserted there was no part of the world where wheat could be disposed of on a large scale without seriously affecting world prices. Corn and oats followed upturns in wheat.

Provisions were neglected.

OPEN FIGHT ON 'POWER ISSUE'

Congressional Group Ranks It as Outstanding in 1932 Campaign.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 21—Fifteen senators and 22 representatives have placed their signatures on a declaration that the power question will be a major issue in this year's presidential campaign and that the "power trust is seeking to influence the selection of candidates.

The statement, with the names of the signers, appeared on the frontispiece of a booklet issued yesterday by Judson King, director of the National Popular Government league, giving an analysis of the power stands of presidential candidates.

The signers included Senators Johnson, Norris, Nye, Frazier, Brookhart, Cutting and Howell, Republicans, Wheeler of Montana, Wheeler, Mc[illegible], Dill, Gore, and Logan, Democrats, and Shipstead, Farmer Labor.

The analysis of the presidential candidates, which was not included in the section [illegible] by the legislators, described President Hoover as a "power trust President", classed Governor Ritchie of Maryland, and Newton D. Baker as also on the "power trust" side; termed Alfred E. Smith as on middle ground, and listed Speaker Garner and Franklin D. Roosevelt on the "public interest" side.

The legislators' signatures applied only to the section which asserted the power question's political significance "cannot be over estimated and must challenge the attention of those interested in any progressive movement or measure."

SPRING HERE AFTER "WINTERLESS" YEAR

Last Six Months Called Most Freakish in Weather Annals.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 21—Spring is here—and for millions of Americans, the 12 months just ended will linger in memory as "the year without a winter."

The last six months saw the most freakish weather in the history of the U. S. weather bureau.

In the east youngsters with new Christmas sleds waited in vain for the snow. It fell instead on orange groves of sunny California. Most of the U. S. A. hardly knew winter was around until he launched a cold wave in the second week in March.

From the Mississippi valley eastward the mercury hovered from eight to ten degrees above normal levels.

In the far west it hung six or eight degrees below the usual figure. The east section had one of the lightest snowfalls ever, while the west dug itself out of [illegible] after blizzard. The winter of 1931-32 may become famous as the winter that ended the drought in areas where drought [illegible] [illegible] ago. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
